DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. Claims 15 and 19 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being duplicate of claims 14 and 18. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hirano et al (US 5550068) in view of the applicants admitted prior art (Fig 1a-1d and 2).

Hirano et al disclose a process for wiring formation and disclose a feeder film partially on a substrate (Fig 2a-2), a plating base partially overlapping the feeder film (Fig 2k-11), the plating base film formed by sputtering (Col 3 lines 49-53) in an opening made by masking using photoresist material (Col 3 lines 38-40) and forming a plated wiring on the base film (Fig 2m-12 and Col 3 lines 59-62). The plating base film is disclosed to provide improved adhesion (Col 3 lines 56-58).

Art Unit: 1763

Hirano et al do not expressly disclose removing the feeder film. However, it is well known in the art that the sole purpose of a feeder film is to connect all the dies on the substrate to power supply for electrolytic plating. After electrolytic plating these film lines made for the purpose of connecting electricity are at least partially etched away to disconnect from the main feeder line.

This conventional method of removing the feeder film is disclosed in Applicants admitted prior art (Page 2 line 15) by wet etching.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to remove this feeder film at least partially to disconnect from the main feeder line.

Regarding claims 5, 11, 14 and 18, Hirano et al do not expressly disclose the width of the base film to be greater than the width of the feeder film. However they disclose the control of resistance of the base film by controlling thickness. As the width of the base film controls the resistance in the same way, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to increase the width of the base film to decrease its resistance.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US 4293637, 5679234 and JP 04262536.
